TWAS GOLD THAT PARTED THEM FOREVER.

Her hand met his but not her heart, In those dear days beyond recall: He ne'er forgets, tho' hope departs For she to him was all in all. The dream of joy is past and dim; Note en as friends they now may meet; The plighted ring, returned to him,

Lies broken, like her vo vs so sweet !

CHORUS.

Twas gold that parted them forever.
'Twas wealth that won her from his side; And yet be can forget her never. Although she is another s bride! Tho' fate has doomed their lives should sever. And sorrow now his heart must fil, In visons bright he sees her ever, And loves, yes, dearly loves her still

'Tis past-her smiles he may not share; And yet, tho' wealth will glad each day How oft, in weariness and care, She'll miss the love she cast away. Too late she'll think of one whose life Was at her feet in days gone by, And then, in anguish and in strife. Will fall for her the bitter sigh!

THE PASTORAL PLAY MIDSUMMER EPISODE.

[CONCLUDED.]

BY GRANT ALLEN

Mrs. Inverarity was just about to answer, "Oh, I'm sure dear Doris has always liked you." when mething in his eyes gave her pause for a mo ent. "Oh, of course." Sir George echoed. "She is so clever, so beautful! But I can't get an opportunity to speak to her alone. Someone's always buzzing about. She's so much run after. And i trust to you to sid me in fluding or making an oc casion to speak to her."

"I will do my bes," Mrs. Inversitiy answered.
"There's a boas on the pond here. You'd better offer to take her a row on it tomorrow." "Capital!" Sir George answered. "And you'll suggest it to Miss Widett?"

The hostess drew back with a little start of surprise. "To Miss Willett?" she cried, scandalised.

"Why, of course," Vandeleur answered. "I can't propose to her by rowing in the boat alone, can I?

And he gazed at her comically.

This epidemic insanity of all the young men was quite too much for Mis. Inversity's nerves. don't mean to say," she cried, "you really propose to marry her?"

"If she will have me." Vandeleur answered. "But what I'm afraid of is that Roland will be before me Now, I learn from what your daughter has let slip in conversation that you have some sort of objection to the stage as a profession, and, therefore, I hope you will do your best for me and not for Ro-and." He gazed at her inquiringly.

As the mother of a family, Mrs Inversity felt some qualms of conscience at this painful position She didn't wish Roland to be beguiled by this siren from so sad a fate, in helping to plunge another young man of equal or higher rank into the sau perdition? Sir George was a gentleman of birth and breeding. How dreadful to think he wished to throw himself away, without one thought of cons quences, on this dreadful Willett person!

You see," Vandeleur went on, "I've been des perately in love with her since I was at Oxford But I couldn't make her an offer then, because wasn't rich enough. I couldn't bear to feel my wife was doing. This Spring, however, as you know my uncle Marmadake died, and left me a large for to make her an offer on terms of equality. one wish of my heart to see Rosalind Willett become Lady Vandeleur.

"And she'll jump at it, of course," Mrs. Inversity

"I'm afraid not," Vandeleur replied, with a stiffed sigh. "Between you and me, dear Mrs. Inverarity, I've half a notion she's in love with Roland."

Mrs. Inverarity had an excellent conceit for Ro land—was he not her son and the heir of her pro-perty?—but still, she recognized that to a person of that sort, it was far more desirable to be Lady Vandeleur than any plain "Mrs."; besides which, Sir George had three times as much now as ever Roland was likely to inherit. So she did not doubt the dreadful creature would jump at Sir George as soon as he offered himself. Her only hesitation was as to the abstract question whether it was right or not to aid and abet him in his painful project. family?" she asked at 1-st. What will they all say Vandeleur looked at her, puzzled. "The Canon. he answered, "was a great friend of my father's; and my sisters are exceedingly fond of Miss Willett."

She could be conceived or imagined. "Oh, no!" he answered, shaking his head in blank despair. "I did must protect her own. Next morning accordingly, Mrs. Inversity so far broke through the commands Rosalind had imposed upon her as to sav after breakfast to Vande "Nobody has tried the boat on the pond yet eorge. Why don't you take Miss Willett out Sir George. for a row today, while Roland is seeing to the arrangement of the seats in the amphitheatre?

Sir George jumped at the proposal, and Rosalind, not without some little hesitation, consented. Mrs Inverarity kept decently out of the way. It is tru even she had perceived, by a violent effort of that femioine lutuition of which she boasted, that Doris was very much in love with Sir George, and she would gladly have seen her daughter Lady Vandeleur. Still, her desire to make a good match for Doris was as nothing by the side of her far deeper desire to save her son from the dreadful creature Besides which, she felt sure Sir George was at bot tom a young man of excellent principles (Mrs. In verarity was strong upon principles, which she ap praised at sight, as a good judge of wines appraises a vintage from a sip at a glassful), and she there fore believed he would see through the dreadful creature for himself before long, and return to the affection he had once seemed to be developing for her beloved Doris. A young man of principle could not long continue to be enslaved by a dreadful creature, however much he might momentarily be carried away by her meretricious charms into making her an illusory offer of marriage

To her immense surprise, however, the unexpect ed happened. About two hours later Mrs. Inverar ity stroll d down to the poud and found Vandeleur sitting there, a picture of dejection, on the bench by the boat house, looking down at the yellow flags that fringed the margin.

"Well, you decided not to ask her, then?" Mrs. Inverarity suggested.

That was honorable of her!" Mrs. Inversrity cried, surprised into the admission. wish to ruin you. I couldn't have believed the girl had so much good in her. I couldn't have believed she would have refused so much money and rank Vandeleur looked up at her with a puzzled look "Oh, money is nothing to her," he answered; "nor a title either. If it comes to that, she might have been a countess long ago-might have married Lord Badenoch, who is a great deal richer man than I am-but she wouldn't, because she didn't love him. She's the sort of girl who could never marry any man for any reason on earth than be cause she loved and adored him devotedly. Th fact of it all is, she's in love with Roland. t before, but I tried to disbelieve it. I have it now from her own lips. 'I like you, Sir George,' she said, with a sweet, sad smile, 'and I'm sorry to grieve you, as I know I must do. But what I said to my Orlando in the play, I said and say in all stness-"I'll have no husband if you be not be -and I shall always say it. While Mrs. Inversity objects to our marriage I will never marry bim. But sooner or later, ev n she must begin to feel she has misunderstood m ; and when she does, I will marry Roland. And if she never does, I will marry other man. And with that she turned away and left me here, miserable."

Mrs. Inverarity sat down to collect her scattered To a woman of Mrs. Inverarity's mental status nothing is so difficult as to revers an opinion. She had started with a fixed belief, based upon no experience at all, but upon nothinking prejudice, that all actresses are exception dread. ful creatures. And now, when facts almost con ever personally come across was a woman of and of exceptional generosity, she could hardly accept that plain conclusion. It seemed so incongruous to think that a dreadful creature should use such language, and should refuse such an offer Dimly it began to suggest itself to Mrs. Inversity's go up and array himself in his costume as Jaques surely the most melancholy and dispirited Jaque that ever mingled his tears with triffe late, it is true, but he went through his par with commendable gloominess. As for Rosalind on the other hand, her acting was reality; Roland thought he had never seen her render the part of her namesake with such surprising vividness and truthfulness. It was not acting; it was life—it was reality. In the midst of the rehearsal however, a the course of the comedy. Mrs. Inversity, cros the lawn by accident, happened to arrive upon th Rosalind, dressed up once more in that very objetionable and immodest costume which Mrs. Inverin exposing to the chaste gaze of the maidens of It chanced that, at the same time, a few of Roland's men friends, whom he had invited himse without troubling her to ask them, had come down from town to stop at Heathershott. One of them, a tall young fellow in clerical costume, strolled at once from the house, and positively flung himself upon Rosatindas Mrs. Inverarity was passing. It was with a shudder of surprise and horror that Mrs. Inverarity saw the girl positively stop in her part to kiss the clergyman! That a man in holy orders should kiss an actress—but, no. at that moment a satisfactory explanation at once suggested itself. the hoardings of London Mrs. Inversity recollected having seen, a few years since, a large and ob trusive poster of a most painful scene, in which s man in a clergyman's dress was objectionably cari-catured, struggling with a Bath bun, a pair of goloshes, a broken bandbox, a tumbled railway rug and a misceilaneous collection of general in pedimenta. She had inquired into the meaning of this degrading picture, and had been credibly in-formed by those who knew that it represented a character in a popular farce, whose name she be lieved to have some distant relation to somebody's play, which was by Shakespeare had a certain in-private secretary. It had been then explained to trinsic poetic beauty. It interested Mrs. Inversity.

her that in this shocking piece the main butt of ridicule was a worthy young curate, whose very designation of the Rev. Robert Spaulding had not wholly escaped her precarious memory. The an-alogy of such a piece immediately suggested to Mrs. Inverarity's mind the idea that the person now before her was not in very truth a clergyman at all, but one of her own guests dressed up in this irreverent and unbecoming disguise.

Mrs. Inverarity had not devoted to the works of William Shakespeare the same close attention which she had long bestowed upon the Uganda Mis sion, and, therefore, she was not in a position to de-cide whether a curate in modern clerical costume does or does not form one of the dramatis persona in "As You Like It." To be sure, she was aware of a certain incongruity between Rosalind's dress and the tall young curate's an incongruity which rather increased her disgust at seeing the two em-brace with such apparent affection; but then it occurred to her that Roland had described "As You Like It' as a pastoral comedy; and in a comedy, which Mrs. Inverarity understood to mean a funny play, such incongruities might perhaps be not un naturally aimed at as an element of humor. As for the delicate distinction between a Shakespearean fantasy and a modern farce, that did not enter into Mrs. Inverarity's scheme of the universe. She had left the theatre severely alone; and, as a consequence, she was absurdly and grotesquely unaware of either its strengths or its weaknesses.

While she was engaged in debating these things in her own mind, however, a second ciergyman strolled up, gray haired and older than the first to enter. In this new comer, to her great surprise, Mrs. Inversity recognized the delightful Canon Willett who often spoke with such fervor, eloquence and convincing sincerity at the annual meeting of the Uganda Mission. She did not know till then that Roland had written to invite him; and she was pleased to find that her son should have formed the acquaintance of so excellent a man-in which episode she saw yet another proof of Roland's ex-c-llent underlying principles. She trembled, how-ever, to reflect what the Canon would think of Miss Rosalind's scandalous and shameless costume, which was so deeply exercising her. Would be fly in horror from the unwomanly exhibition, or would he hide his face in his hands, or would he raise up his voice, and profest in loud tones with evangelistic force against the distressing spectacle?

The Canon, however, adopted none of these ourses. He raised up his voice, it is true, but it was merely to call out in a most friendly tone, suppose, my dear, I mustn't venture to interrupt that sacred thing, a rehearsal?" He said "my dear" to the dreadful creature? Mrs.

Inverarity blushed to her boots to hear him

Rosalind, however, answered back with a really charming smile, "Oh, it isn't quite as serious as that, you know?" And, breaking from the scene, she rushed up to him and kissed him!

Mrs. Inverarity waited for the heavens to fall-or for the Canon to call down lightning upon the aban-doned being. Instead of which, the gray haired clergyman put his hand on the girl's head and fon died her gently. She was a beautiful girl, Mrs. Inverarity was fain even then to admit; and, if any thing could excuse or palliate such conduct in a dignitary of the church, it was the charmingly natu ral look of affection and admiration which those big eyes cast back at him. Mrs. Inverarity, as she loosed, could understand and enter into the baneful spell which such women exercise over the men who love them. But, still, if grieved her to the core to learn that the Canon was a hypocrite! He gave such delightfut addresses in Exeter Hall, and all the while he was the secret victim of the creature's false blandishments.

This was what comes of giving way in a weak moment to a son's worse nature, and allowing pas-toral plays to be performed in your gardens! One downward step, and another follows. She had now to look on with her own very eyes, and see that De-liah embracing the Canon! Rosalind recognized her in the distance, as she tried to hurry away, and called out to her more humanly than usual, "Oh, Mrs. Inverarity, I want to speak to you!" She said II to a certain imperious voice which there was no resisting. Mrs. In verarity turned round and moved towards all bluches. The creature, in her unspeakable tume, accompanied by her two clerics, the real and said, "to my father, Canon Willett; and also to my brother, Mr. Willett, of Oriel. Papa, Charlie, this is Mrs. Inverarity.

Next day for the first tome in her life, on the pur le heather floor of the glade at Heathershott. Mrs. Inversity beheld a real stage play actually performed before her.

To her immense surprise, after the first two scenes, she began to perceive there was nothing inherently wicked or victous in it. Nay, more, the play, which was by Shakespeare, had a certain inRoiand, as Orianoo, looked so handsome in his trunk hose; and Rosaiind—well, when once she had got over the first shock of the page's dress, Rosaiind was really most natural and charming And there was heart in the play, too, and sympathy and feeling. It might be bucksiding—it might be the insidious effect of the world, the fesh and the devil; but once or twice, as she looked and listened, Mrs. Inverarity caught herself wondering whether plays like this were wholly had after all, or whether they might not exertupon certain minds some good and wholesome induces.

plays like this were whonly bad nice and, of wheeled they halph not exert upon certain minds some good and wholesome inducate.

Bit by bit she began to perceive that Rosalind Willett was a great artist. And the Canon, by her side, sat and enjoyed it all, and whispered once in her ear: "I've never seen Rosalind act the part before with such verye and spirit? which Mrs. Inverarity, for her part, could very easily believe, for so carried away was she by the performance, against all belief, that when Rosalind torned and said the words to Orlando: "To you I give myself, for I am yours," Mrs. Inveraity could hardly restrain herself from calling out alond: "Quite right, too, my dear, I'm sure, for I know you deserve him?"

When all was over and the play played out, Roland brought his Rosalind, in her final woman's dress, up to his mother, smiling. "Well, what do you say now to singe plays, mother?" he asked her.

With a suddien inpulse Mrs. Inverarity took the becutiful girl's hand in hers: "My dear," "che said humbly—and the very words "my dear" cold Roland what was coming—"I think you have converted me. I never saw a play acted before, but it was beartiful, beautiful?" She looked into Rosalind's eyes. "Can you forgive me, dear?" she mar mared.

Rosalind's hand closed hard on hers. "I can for-nared.

Resalind's hand closed hard on hers. "I can fortive you," she answered, "because you did not give yeu," she answered, "because you did not know me. You know me now. I thought I should convert you,"

Roland kissed his mother's forchead. "Then it is settled?" he asked in a voice of titumph.

"It is settled?" he asked in a voice of titumph.

"It is settled?" Mrs. Inverarity answered. 'She is goot and generous, and she loves you dearly. I can see I have been foolishly and stupidly prejudiced.' She turned to Rosailind, and with a sudden impulse kissed her. 'My dear," she whispered, "you wont have to act upon the stage any more. Roland shall have enough and more than enough to keep you!"

You cannot obliterate the prejudices of a lifetime in a single minute. Rosailind gazed at her, more amused than surprised. "Dear Mrs. Inverarity," she said, "you don't quite understand even now. I hold this talent, which God has bestowed upon me, in trust for humanity. I can make men and women laugh and cry and sympathize and be happy. It is a great giff, and I must use it for the best advantage of my fellow creatures. It is a glorious art, and I must do what I can to study and develop it. I must not hide my belien in a napkin, or my light under a bushel, must I, dear father? Roland wo did wish me to continue the work my heart is set upon. You may not see just yet, but you will see in time that this is the truest and noblest course for me."

A sudden humbleness had overcome Mrs. Inverarity. She looked deep lind those great eyes, and then answered modestly. "I believe you are right, my dear. A giff the your was surely meant to be exercised that we may all profit by it. I begin to suspect that this is a mighty art whose use I have misunderstood. But, Rosaihad, you will teach me to understand it bettet."

And Rosaihad did, with very good effect. For

For now, at every first inght at the Shakeepeare, no more enthusiastic and delighted listener applauds Mrs. Roland Inversativ's parts than her devoted mother in faw. And it is seldom, too, that Sir George and Lady Vandeleur are absent; for boris declares that no sermon on earth ever does her more good than one of dear Resalind's marvelous impersonations.—London Sketch.

The Omaha, Neb., Lodge of Elks will arrive by special train and hold their annual pienic here Aug. 1. It is expected that the Chicago Ladies' Military Band, which brought to a close a protracted stay 25, will fill a return engagement here on the completion of its tour through Colorado and the Western resorts.

Keokuk.—Harris' Nickel Plate Circus came July 27 and drew large and well pleased audiences. Mr. Harris reports business as very satisfactory.

The Ringting Bros.' Shows will attract a mighty crowd to this city Aug. 10. Exceedingly low rates for points within a radius of one hundred miles have been made by the radiroads centreing here.... McNavin's Comedy Co. closed a week's engagement at the Keokuk July 25, to light houses.

Manager Hughes will not formally open the season at his house until the latter part of September.....Mile. Greta, the opera singer, is at her home here for the Summer, after filling a number of professional engagements on the Continent.

Marshalltown.—The Ringling Bros. Circus on July 25, had full tent in afternoon. Light business in evening on account of rain..... Withur Evans attended the Inter-State Bill Posters' Association Convention in Chicago July 21. Keokuk .- Harris' Nickel Plate Circus cam Davenport.—The Great Nickel Plate Shows exhibited in this city July 25, to a very small attendance..... The lowa State Bar Association held its annual convention here 29 and 30 and closed with a banquet in the evening. The leading lawyers of the State were in attendance.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston .- In a few short weeks the "merry-goround" of amusements will begin to whiri as in seasons past, and the ides of September will see our amusement houses in full blast. Already the announcements begin, and the stay at homes are notified that the Summer solstice is over and their turn for pleasure seeking is near at hand.

BOYTON'S WATER SHOW.—This latest amusemen for our people has just "caught them on the hip," a fact evidenced by the patronage accorded it since its opening. The numbers on the programme are nearly a score, and among the most meritorious ones are the perilous "high dive" by Frank Burley; the Monte Cristo (sack) feat, by Alf. Ridout; the log olling, walking on water, "battle of bladders," onkey boat race, etc., etc. Taken all in all, it is a novel and most catchy show, and well deserves th patronage accorded it. In addition to the manifold attractions for the current week Manager Wallace Ross announces a sensational novelty, in the shape f a man who will ride down an inclined plane, two hundred feet in length, on a bicycle, guiding the wheel with his body, and landing safely in the lake at the foot of the decline. The venturesome stranger's name is not yet given out, but will be after his first performance on Monday.

KEITH'S NEW THEATRE.—Business at this popular house continues at the top notch, and the high standard of entertainments established by Mr Keith is ever in evidence. For week of Aug. : Manager Albee's bulletin holds the names of Car and Jordan, the Eddys, Mildred Howard, Sidney De Gray, Frank Bryan, Smith and Campbell, Raymor Moore, Takezawa's troup of Jap juggiers, the Mig nani Family, Eddie Pinaud, Alice L. Hodgdon, the Mahr Sisters, Tim Cronin, and Russell and Pearl. In addition to the above the very popular vita scope is retained, and will be seen during the cur-cent week with a fine aggregation of entirely new views. In about two weeks Manager Albee wil put on a series of living pictures.

Howard Athenaum,—Once more, after a close of a number of weeks, the "Old Howard's" doors will be thrown open to the public, and patrons of the house from the West and North Ends, to say nothing of the outlying districts, will, as of old.
swarm to their Mecca of mirth and jollity. For the opening night, Monday, 3, General Manager Mc Avoy (who is still at the helm of Geo. E. Lothrop's amusement enterprises) offers: Caron and Herbert, acrobats: the Quaker City Quartet, the Metro politan Trio, Felix and Cain, Redding and Stanton. Polly Holmes, the Farrells, Ida Russell, Fish and Quigg, Valdo, John Weber, James Richmond Glén roy, Millie Turnour, Phillips and Layton, Bryan and Cleaves, John Walsh, Saunders and Burdell Miles and Raymond, Dawley and Waldron, Robert T. Tyrrell, Herr Schlau, Lord and Morton, Nellie

St. Clair, Glidden and French, and Lillie Coleman AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—That phenomenally strong pair of human beings, Mile. Zaccho and her partner, Samson, still continue to be a very power ful attraction at this house, and during last week attracted large crowds daily to the lecture hall. In the hall also are to be seen Frank Le Bar, the novel dislocationist; Joseph Cramer, the rubber neck man; Ajeeb, the automatic chess player, and Young Americus, unique equilibrist. On the stage are the French Family LaRue, Howley and Doyle, Mastone and Ravill, Haynes and Redmond, the Two Kodaks Annie Wallace, the Marsh Family, John H. W Byrnes, Dollie E. Howe, Flexible Lamore and Alice Leslie, to be seen in hourly shows of comedy and

THE CHUTES.-This day and evening entertain ment on Huntington Avenue is meeting with the success such a novelty merits, and crowds continue o lend their support to the enterprise.

Notes.—Lawrence McCarthy, who assumes the duties of manager of the Park Theatre, under the Eugene Tompkins regime, informs me that he has completed all arrangements for the opening of the house Aug. 31, with the great Italian impersonator, Fregoli Laura Biggar and Burt Haverley will again lead Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown" the ing season.....Denman Thompson and Geo. W. Ryer's collaborated comedy of "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley" will be produced at the Tremont Theatre Aug. 31.....The old Howard has been thoroughly repainted and renovated throughout and now shines, interiorly, as bright as any of our popular price houses of amusement. an indoor amusement resort the Crystal Maze an indoor amusement resort the Crystal Maze and X-Rays exhibition, 169 Tremont Street, shows its popularity by the crowds that throng the place afternoon and evening..... May Irwin, in "The Widow Jones," will be seen at the Boston Museum in the very near future ... Henry C. Barnabee is rusticating, shooting and fishing in the English provinces..... The Roland Reed Co. will rehearse in this city prior to opening the coming season at the Boston Museum.....The company that will play "The Lady Slavey" at the Hollis Street Theatre next September will consist of more than seventy five people. A pronounced success is predicted for the burlesque in this city... Annie Clarke, Boston's favorite, has returned from Maine, where she has been summering, and goes to New York this week, to rehearse and prepare for her appearance at Hoyt's Theatre, Sept. 3, in "The Liar.".....The rehearsals of Author-Editor John J. McNally's new farce, "A Good Thing," will be egun by Peter F. Dailey Aug. 10, in this city, where it will have its first presentation.

Lowell.—At the Lakeview Theatre the Weston-Reimer Comedy Co. played "Arablan Nights" week ending Aug. 1, to increased business. "7-20-8" will be staged 3, for a week.

RINGLING NOTES—Sunday, July 27, was spent in Algona, Ia. It is no exaggeration to say that it was the hottest Sunday of the season. There was not a breath of air stirring, and the heat was of the "dead" variety. Towards sundown the sky became overcast with dark, threatening clouds. As the evening grew on the black expanse was repeatedly illuminated with terrife flashes of lightning, and role after roll of heavy thunder brought terror to the hearts of the more itnid ones. The wind began to blow about a o'clock, and shortly after that the rain drops commenced to patter on the roof. It was a refreshing rain and not unwelcome to the heated members of our show and the

THE LA PORTE SISTERS

Were born in this city, and from the time of their first professional appearance, at Bunnell's Museum, Ninth Street and Broadway, in 1883, have appeared together with marked success in nearly every city of prominence in this country, their engagements having taken them into both the legitimate and vaudeville realms. As young girls they sang in churches and at private entertainments in this city, the quality of their voices, perfected by an excellent musical education, arousing much interest until they concluded to make a substantial use of their musical education, arousing much interest until they concluded to make a substantial use of their takents, a decision which has served to place them in a prominent station in their chosen caring. Their first engagement was extended from time to time until they had been at Bunnell's nearly a year, when they joined Kernell, Wheatley & Trainor's Vaudevilles for their first road season. They were next identified with M. B. Leavill's Lilly Clay Co., and continued with that show after it passed to the management of Sam T. Jack, four seasons in all. One season with the Night Owls and one season with the Rentz-Samiley Co. followed, when they joined Davis & Keogh's "The Hustler," in which they appeared for one season. Joining M. B. Leavill's "Spider and Fly," they carried the tille roles for several seasons, after which they appeared in one of Rice & Barton's companies. For the past two seasons they have appeared exclusively in yaudeville houses, where their sweet singing has established them in popularity. Their selections are always in good taste, the music being transposed to suit their voices, which are clear, strong and melodious. Rose sings a strong soprano, while Hilda is possessed of the rare faculty of being able to instantly change her voice from a high to a low key, imparting to their songs a counter melody which at times seems to amount to a third voice; an effect which is remarkably agreeable. Through a commendable enterprise in keeping pace with current songs, by being costumed in neat and becommendable enterprise in keeping pace with brrent songs, by being costumed in neat and be-oming attire, and by making the most of their tal-ats, their act is in continual favor with their andi-nces, as well as in strong demand among managers.

IKE ROSE writes THE CLIPPER from London. thus: "Since writing my last letter I have visited Paris, Brussells and Antwerp. Shows are nearly all closed there for the Summer, only a few music halls being open. My prodigy, Tiddlewinks, opened at the mammoth theatre called the Olympia, for four weeks, and has received contracts for next year at the syndicate music halls, Oxford, Tivoli and London Pavilion. My advice to American performers that want to come over here is to not leave America unless they have contracts to open, for if they do they will have to lay idle for at least six months, unless lucky enough to catch on, as there are more American acts awaiting to go to work than are working. Each act is required to give a trial show at one or more music halls here. If satisfactory they get engagements after a long wait. There are several American managers of music halls here, each outbidding the other for foreign acts, and paying all kinds of money to performers who never knew what big salaries are. I have engaged for Manager Gus Hill's Vanity Fair Burlesque, also for his Novelites and New York Stars, three leading features for the season of 1807-98. The acts are booked until then, and they cannot be released. They are the Sevario troupe of lady acrobats: the Tichners, athletes and aerielists, and Mile. Amy Cornelle, French eccentrique, singer and musician. I sall for America Aug. 22: Notes From Flynn & Strendan's Big Sensation, Double Show and New City Sports Co.—We are hard at work getting things in shape for the opening of the season and have plenty to do. FAIRS FOR 1896.

Following our annual custom, we present a list of fairs for the coming Fall. The clashing of dates, the frequent changes and practical impossibility of collecting all the material combine to make a list of this kind only approximately correct; nevertheless, this kind only approximately correct, hevertheress, those fairs we record here, made up in part from The Country Gentleman's list will be found useful to many classes of showmen who have not yet arranged their routes for the season of 1896-7. The ranged their routes for the season of 1896-7. The letters preceding dates stand for the months, as A. for August, S. for September, etc. When no initial for August, S. 10: September, etc. which no initial letter precedes the date, it signifies that the month is that last indicated.

TENNESSEE.

Nashville .- Since the close of the regular theatrical season here there has been absolutely news of any kind in the amusement line. A hews of any kind in the amusement line. All the theatres have been dark, not having an entertainment of any description. There was some talk of a summer opera company, but nothing came of it. The openings of the local theatres have not yet been announced, and it is very probable that it will be rather late in the season before any of the local theorem. The free box system for stockhold. been announced, and it is very probable that it will be rather late in the season before any of the houses open. The free box system for stockholders at the Theatre Vendome has taken another turn, and for the coming season the house will be managed by the owners, with Thomas J. Bairle as business manager. This was brought about by Greenwall, Curry and Boyle refusing to again lease the house with the free box clause, and the stockholders would not give up their boxes. Mr. Greenwall declared he had chough to suit him, and the owners then tendered the house to Curry & Boyle. They also declined to lease the house again, and Capt. Jack Curry withdrew, and the owners made Mr. Boyle a proposition which he accepted. Mr. Boyle is now in New York, booking attractions, and writes that he has some very strong ones.....The New Masonic will again be operated by Jefferson, Riaw & Erlanger, with Will A. Sheetz retained as business manager. Some improvements are being made in the house, and it will present a very attractive appearance when opened.....In addition to managing the Vendome Mr. Boyle still retains his lease of the Grand Opera flouse, and will play a first class line of popular price attractions. He has booked quite a number of good ones, and he latends to keep the house open throughout the season.

NEW YORK CITY

Last Week's Events .- We have now reached the dullest time of the year. Quietude reigns all along the line save where are heard the sounds of the coming season. rule is worse than dull; it is absolutely bad, and even in the roof garden, which seemed to have by even in the root garden, which seemed to darmed far the best average attendance, we are informed that the Summer season has not yielded financial success. A recent venture, the giving of a vaudeville entertainment upon the steamer Grand Repub-lic, while cruising about the harbor, is a pleasant novelty which has thus far had sattafactory result tovelly which has thus far had satisfactory results. The enterprise is one that will probably appeal strongly to those who appreciate the invigoration that results from cooling breezes, and success should crown the effort, even "though storms be sudden and waters deep.". The continued attractions for the week ending Aug.

were: "In Gay New York" at the Castno, German opera at TREEACE GARDEN and Bentiey's Circus under canvas on the East side..... Variety enter-tainment was furnished at Tony Paston's, the UNION SQUARE, PROCTOR'S, the CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, PROCTOR'S PLEASURE PALACE and the folowing roof gardens: KOSTER & BIAL'S, the CASINO, GLYMPIA, the Madison Square, the American, the GRAND CENTRAL PALACE and the Colonial, the last, situated at One Handred and First Street and Coumbus Avenue, being a recent addition to the list.

Enwis Forkest Lodos, No. 2, of the Actors' Order of Friendship is making arrangements for a benefit performance, to be given at the Academy of Music on Oct 8. Joseph Jefferson has consented to appear, and it is expected that many other prominent stars will also be seen.

John B. Dorks has again assumed the management of the Gaiety Theatre, and will reopen the house early in September. He has secured the services for a limited season of Miline Christine, the Two Headed Nightingale. This will be her first appearance in a New York theatre since her departure for Europe, some fourteen years ago.

The American Theatre will begin its season Aug. 1, with Hubert Hail Winslow's "The Great Northwest."

Chas, Frontman has appointed Chas, B. Dillingham manager of the Garden Theatre for the comling season.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE.-It is claimed here that the cinematographe is largely responsible for the throngs which crowd this favorite contin uous performance resort nowadays, and while this may all be so, it would seem that the excellent bill of variety, nearly always presented, would have may all be so, it would seem that the excellent bill of variety, nearly always presented, would have some potency if not wholly responsible. Whatever the cause the effect is agreeable and the audiences which find their way to this house are well amused. On Monday, Aug. 3, four new pictures were shown and the more popular views in the old series retained. The Rossow Midgets were billed and appeared on the stage, but owing to their trunks failing to arrive they did not do their act. The Detroit Brothers, head and hand to hand balancers, athletes and equilibrists, who then made their American debut, are two very clever performers and will doubtless make good headway in this country. The Acme Four, in their extremely funny sketch, "Mr. Tubbok" Visit," captured their audience completely, and make a strong and well deserved success. Fialkowsky, imitator of animals, and a creditable musician beside, was well up among the favorites, his act fully meriting the cordial appliance which he received. Villa Shayhe, an excelent singer; Mile. Esme, on the trapeze; Senator Frank Bell, in bright nonsense; Dryden and Mitchell, in their splendid act of comedy acrobatic work and boxing; Minola, a juggler; the Claiff Sisters, in songs and dances; ilal Merit, monologuist: Rexo and Reno, acrobats; Sam Weston, in a musical monologue, and Hal James, a dancer, all came in for applause in keeping with their ability. They appeared in a new pantomimic comedy, entitled "A Country Terror," and created much amusement by their efforis. Tyrene and Evaline, in a sketch called "Return from the Ball," found favor, and Edward R. Decker, in character changes, baton spinning, trick drumming and club swingling, came in for a good share of approval. Leola Mitchell, "La Petite Soubrette," won her way into the hearts of her audience, and Lillian and James Kennedy were well liked in their sketch, "Fads and Fancies." Others who were on the bill were: Mabel Macklyn, in soniys and dances; Pantzer Bros., head and hand balancers; Ella Kirchner, instrumentalist; Fields and Lewis, parody singers; Engelhart and Raymond, female fencers; Genaro and Balley, in a comedy sketch; Jeanette Lillford, male impersonator; Kurtz, Juggler, and Valdo, comedienne. Kosper & Bial's.—The favorable weather, comblined with an excellent programme, drew an audi-ence of good proportions to this resort Aug. 3. Jean Clermont, a ciever animal trainer, made his American debut and exhibited a trained wild boar. a donkey, two dogs and two roosters, each of which did a variety of elever tricks. The performance was excellent, and was a decided success. The Fenz Brothers. Vienness ductists, new comers to this resort, unde friends by their singing. Nellie Seymont, in character songs, found considerable favor, and Mile. Carrie won much applause for her ever pleasing musical act. Eitrot, mimic, returned to the home of his former trimphs, and won new admirers by his work. Eleanor Falk proved herself to be a promising coincidenne and was accorded full recognition for her singing. The Rogers Brothers, Duich comedians, were as funny as usual, and were continued in favor. The Manhattan Comedy Four were retained in popular favor and were recalled several times. The Misses Crews and Lawrence, operatic ductifists, did well, and Joe Flynn sang his usual patentes. The performance concluded with the vitascope, which still has a strong hold on the public's fancy. a donkey, two dogs and two roosters, each of Tony Paston's THEATRE. Mand Nugent, by her excellent methods and undoubted talent, has so thoroughly captured patrons of this house that she has been retained for a third consecutive week, her reception on Monday, Aug. 3, giving full evidence reception on Monday, Aug. 3, giving full evidence of her popularity. Conway and Leland, acrobatic and connedly monopedes, were given a rousing welcome and scored heavily in the line of apparase. Jack and Rosa Burke returned after a long absence, but were not forgotten, their highly entertaining boxing act creating its customary hit. There was enthusiasm and applause a plenty during Annie Hart's time upon the stage. Laughter predominated white James F. Hoey jested, and a like condition of adairs prevalted white Geo, E. Austin and the full force of stage hands joined in doing a comedy act with a stack wire finish. Manager Pastor was heard in a round of fresh parvides and comedy songs, the usual good cineer resulting; C. W. Williams ventriloquitzed; Mabel Barvid sang ballads, Tom and Gertle Grimes presented a contedy sketch, Fry and Clark entertained eccentrically, Emerson and Omega gave a comedy sketch which was appreciated, Mile, Valesca was seen on the Spanish rings, Bobby Mack introduced Irish coinedy, and Van Leer and Barton created a great hubbub with their black face comedy, the total result being a vast amount of good amusement for all, with a degree of appanse in full accord with the several specialities. In spite of the hot weather business here maintains a profitable standard, the attendance at the beginning of the current week being of surprisingly large proportions.

GRAND CENTRAL PALACE ROOF GARDEN.-The buil for the week of Aug. 3 retains as its principal feature Nina Diva. HUBER'S PMACK MUSKUM. The Deer Brothers' Wild West, comprising Indians, cowboys, plains-men and other typical representatives of the far West, hold partial possession of curio-hall this week, and the curious were much in evidence on Monday, Aug. 3. Tim Smith, a man who defies all conveyances by claiming to be unable to step waiking, save, of course, during the time consumed in eating, sleeping and drawing his salary; Zaroma, an alligator adept, and the Italian Four are also in competition with the Westerners. On the stage may be seen Campbell and Evans, Mande Myring, Harry S. Marton, McCarthy and Reynolds, Bates and Bates, the Lees and Sol Koppy. Mande Myring, Harry S. Marion, McCarthy and Reynolds, Bates and Bates, the Lees and Sol Koppy, OLYMPIA Boot GAINEN.—This resort continues to be high in public favor, the crowds nightly attesting to its popularity. The Gotham City quarter returned to this city after a long and successful engagement in London, Eng., and was received with the old Hite favor. Their singing won much appiatise and they were recalled several times, Johnson, Davenport and Lorda, councily acrobats, who were also new comets, made a strong bid for favor la their skit, "Foot Batt Players and the Farmer."

A. H. Knoll and Matie McNell, in cornet solos and duos, made their metropolatan reappearance after a long absence, and were given a warm reception. Their playing on corners was thoroughly appreciated. Lablo Diaz, contortionist, continued to be popular. Fregol entered upon his thriteenth week, still strong in public favor. Bachel Walker, the Crode nightingsle, continued to win approval for her singing. The Brothers Rossi, grotesques, proved themselves to be very good in their work, and kaths then Evo won hearty applains for her singing and dancing. She is more than an ordinarily good dancer, and her deverness and fetching ways won her many admirers. Senerita Baranco, dansense, began her second week still popular, and May Howard comedicane, rendered her usual budget of songs.

Brooklyn .- The weather has been favorable for the Summer amusements and business at the different seaside resorts has been entirely satisfactory. MANHATTAN BEACH.-Great crowds continue to make daily excursions to this fashionable resort, and of course the different places of amusement are liberally patronized. "Evangeline" still holds its own with the masses and will be continued for some time, while special features will be added some time, while special features will be added ias occasion may require. Extra preparations have been made for this week in Sousa's concerts, and his fine band will play excellent programmes twice a day through the week. Rice's Carnival Circus adds new features each week and the cur-rent bill is one of the best yet presented. Pain's fireworks still draw big crowds. There will be other features here this week heliding wrestling fireworks still draw big crowds. There will be other features here this week, including wrestling and swimming matches, bicycle races, etc.

Butouron Beach.—Several important changes have been made in the Seldi programmes for this week. The ones prepared are extremely interesting and include some of the best of the season. The Wednesday night programme will be made up largely of dance music, while on Wednesday afternoon a request programme will be given, and on Thursday afternoon another. Thursday evening. Wagner night. Friday afternoon a programme of overtures will be played, and on Friday night the symphony will be Schubert's in C major. Special programmes will be arranged for Saturday afternoon and evening.

BERGEN BEACH.—This resort is becoming more popular as the season advances, and for originality in attractions it surpasses anything in this vicinity. One of the novelties this week will be an old fash-ioned Southern baptism, the subjects being members of its Dark America show. The ceremony will take place on Wednesday evening, at six o'clock, just in front of the batning pavilion. The new attraction for the week is "Old Holland," a little village, in which life as it exists among the people of the land of dykes and canals will be shown. Among the old attractions that continue popular with the people are "Pinafore," presented on a large vessel incored close to shore; Donald Burns' menagerie and gladiatorial contests, the mystic Moorish maze, the vitascope and the big wheel. A very attractive bill has been arranged for the Casino, which includes Dora Wiley, assisted by Edward Van Vechten, in a comedy musical sketch; Max Pettingill and his trained dog, Will C. Carleton, in novel vocal efforts; Ward and Brown. language butchers; Burns and Coakley, in the darktown dancing duels Cessa Grant, in specialty; Evans and Huffman, ductists and comedians; Lillian Westerly, serio comic; Culhane and St. Felix, in "The Dark Side of Life," and Elsa Tschigorin, in BROOKLYN MUSIC HALL.-Laurent Howard this week assumes the management here. George W. Sammis, the former manager, has resigned to manage the Columbia Theatre, and he takes with him, as advertising agent, J. M. Buckner, for several years connected with Davis & Keogh's attractions, and who has been during the Summer associated with Mr. Sammis at the Brooklyn Music Hall. Mr. Howard's management, 3, was ushered in with much eclat. A host of admiring friends filled the house. The people this week are: Hart and Morefand, Sloan and Curley, Louis Montrose, Russell and Russell, Len Ross, Davis and Jerome James G. Healy and Carl Andersen.

Buffalo.—At the Star Theatre the Wilbur Opera Co, ended its highly successful sojourn Aug. 1, and the house is undergoing its annual overhauling preparatory to opening 27, with Tony Passor.

Notes from Capt. W. D. Ament's Combined Shows.—
Owing to the big business the show has been doing the past three or four weeks standing room has become a chestent, and on our special nights patrons are lucky to even get breathing room. We have had some terrible rain storms of late, but it has not kept the people away. We played Shand, and we received a great reception. Little Harold Ament, three years of age, made his precessional debut there as a clown, mounted on a bicyle in parade. Be proved a great mascot for the show, fully five hundred men and children followed all through the parade. Bob forminson, our snare drummer, is laid up this week with a poisoned fand. Geo. CARDS.

E. W. T., St. Louis.—1. The "ad." would cost one dollar. 2. About filteen dollars per week.

J. M. New York.—In draw poker, when the dealer faces a card in the draw, the player to whom such card was dealt cannot accept it, but it is placed on the bottom of the deck, and the player must be given the next card from the top of the pack, and before any player to his left has been helped.

L. W. B., Norwich.—I. In cutting at pinocle the highest card wins, ace being high and the ten spot next. 2. In playing to a card led, before the talon is exhaused, the second player need not follow suit, nor play a card to the second player need not follow suit, nor play a card to the second player to be fore the talon is exhaused, the second player where the consent trumping being optional; after a large suit must be followed. If possible, of her work a trump must be played; if neither is possible, any card may be played. The second player to a trick must take the trick if he can.

T. F. B., Uhaca.—I went out first with high. All that he was required to do was to make in play the two he bid, and having done that his high counted before B's low.

S. B. A., Princeton.—At seven up the dealer gives each player three cards at a time, alternately if two are play its cards to each player.

D. F. H., Rochester.—But one player can play alone in enchre in the same deal, and but two points can be claimed for euchreing a player who plays alone.

F. W., Baltimore.—Any straight flush is a "royal" flush in draw poker.

W. K. C., Chicago.—There is no penalty for scoring too few points. A would hardly insist that B should score five points because of the error, and B, hy losing five points, bar paid to rise cardisenses. Where the play player needeeds to play wherehead in the work to be played, or may mark two holes.

B. F., Memphis.—If A made in play the three he bid, he won the game with high, which always takes freedence in value of all other points.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

BASEBALL, CRIVENET, EAC.

J. A. F. The Nuremberg Tourney.

As another week may, probably, bring us actual games, it is appetizing to collate from reports to hand some bits about the most interesting battless we may be expected to give—premising that we are going into no rhetorical pyrotechnics at this stage of affairs about who is going to win, or any equally useless blaze about who is a head of whom for the none. Another week will give at least some reasonable data on which, perhaps, some opinions, or gueses anyhow, may be predicated—perhaps not.

account, or blow a horn for somebody else as a special friend.

A notable thing, so far, is the brevity of many of these brilliances, as we shall soon see. The force and fire, imagination and originality displayed are something to mark this tournament forever. Steinitz has so far exceeded, much exceeded, all that could reasonably have been expected of a man of sixty in such fast company. Schlechter is the boy of the crowd, and Walbrodt is but the least bit older. During last week (the second week of the tournament) both Pillsbury and Showa'ter bettered their position, the former winning 4½ games out of 6 played, and placing him among the leaders with a score of 6½ to 4½. Mr. 8. won 3½ games out of the last 6 contests and brought his score up to 4 to 8. The American champlon's first victory was scored against Janowsky, when he played a game that electrified the onlookers and made him the hero of the hour.

The Promised Problem Announcement.

Mr. Teed writes us of his contemplated new collection of problems, now in course of preparation, as follows:

"I have in contemplation a collection of about three hundred problems by leading American authors, each personally to select his favorite compositions. I know a composer is not the best judge of his own work, particularly of new problems. Nevertheless, problem lovers, I imagine, would find the book interesting. Ferrie, when congratulating Jordan on his victory, said that "he had determined to retire from match playsid that "he had determined to retire from match playsing or not, he will always be considered a great player. LEAGUE-ASSOCIATION.

Philadelphia vs. New York. New Yorks defeated the Philadelphias on July 28, at Philadelphia, Pa., by better all around work. Meekin pitched a good game, and for seven innings was practically invincible. Only two scattering hits had been made off his delivery. In the eighth, however, the home team hit him for a nome run, a double and three singles, netting five runs, but only one was carned, as most of the hits came after chances had been onfered for putting out the side. The visitors took the lead at the start, and held the locals safe throughout, although the whole the start of the putting of Chicago vs. Pittsburg.

Daring base running, with timely batting, helped the Chicagos to a victory over the Pittsburgs on July 28, at Chicago, Ill., by the smallest possible margin. It was a battle royal between Pitchers Terry and Killen, and the former came off with flying colors, inasmuch as he outpitched his opponent, giving only one base on halls and striking out flye.

Terry and Killen, and the former came off with flying colors, inasmuch as he outpitched his opponent, giving only one base on bails and striking out five men, and was batted for five singles, which netted one run, while Killen gave three men their base on bails, int another batsman with a pitched bail, was hit safely five times, including a double bagger by Terry, and did not succeed in striking out a batsman. The base running done by the home team, with the pitching were the chief features.

Brooklyn vs. Washington.

The Washingtons defeated the Brooklyns on July 28, at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., after a fine up hill fight. The home team took a lead early in the game through the wretched fielding of the visitors, but after the third inning the latter settled down and prevented the locals from again scoring, while the Washingtons, who had been unable to do any-thing with Kennedy's delivery for six innings, be-gan pounding his curves all over the field, scoring six runs in the last three innings, five being earned. McJames pitched a remarkably good game, and had his support been perfect he would have been credited with sbutting out the home team without a run and holding them down to five scattering. a run, and holding them down to five scattering singles. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by Cartwright and doubles by O'Brien and Anderreleased by the St. Louis Club, of the National League and American Association, gave promise of League and American Association, gave promise of becoming quite a clever pitcher when his release was obtained from the Quincy Club, of the Western Association, during the latter part of 1894. He was born Sept. 19, 1871, at Aledo, Ili., and began his baseball career as a first baseman with a local team at his native place, afterwards playing in the out-field, before he mastered the art of curving the ball. He played with a number of semt professional teams.before accepting a regular professional engagement with the Salesburg Club, in 1803. In 1894 he was engaged by the Quincy Club, of the Western Association, and participated in forty-dwe champion-ship contests, making such a fine showing in the pitcher's position that his release was obtained by the St. Louis Club, of the major league. During the season of 1895 he was "farmed" to the Wheeling

It was a pitcher's battle until the seventh inning, when Mercer went to pieces, while Payne continued his effective work until the end. On several occasions the visitors had men on second and third bases, with only one hand out, and once with no one out, but could not get the necessary hit that would have sent in one or more runs. The Brooklyns put up a faultiess fielding game, while helr batting was weak until the last two innings, when they batted the ball safely at the right time, Lachance cinching a victory in the eighth with a home run drive. Jones made a most difficult catch in the ninth inning that resulted in a double play and ended the game.

Cincinnati vs. Cleveland.

The Cincinnatis scored their third consecutive victory over the Clevelands on July 28, at Cincinnati, O., when they met for the seventh time this nati, O., when they met for the seventh time this season, the victory giving the Cincinnatis a good lead in the race for the pennant. It was anybody's game until the winning run was made in the last half of the ninth inning, with no one out. Wilson held the Cincinnatis well in hand until the fifth inning, when they batted his delivery all over the lot. Young replaced him in the sixth, but did little better than his predecessor. Dwyer, too, was freely batted. In the ninth, with the score at te, McPhee was hit with a pitched ball and Tebeau muffed Vaughn's dy. Smith then singled to centre and McPhee scored the winning run. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Burket, Blake and Miller and doubles by Young, Burke, Vaughn and Smith.

The Pittsburgs again won on July 31, after a hard up hill fight, by bunching their hits in the eighth and ninth innings, when they scored seven of the mine runs credited to them. The game was characterized by quarrels from beginning to end, Umpire Laily being constantly assailed by both sides. In the seventh inning Burke hit down the left foul line. Laily declared it safe, Gray scored and Enret went to third. Killen thought the ball went foul, and in an excited argument with Laily struck the latter in the face. Laily returned the blow and landed several others before they were separated. Instantly there was an uproar. Hundreds of speciators dashed upon the field, while many policemen came from all sides of the grounds. Many of the umpire's friends were there and a riot seemed limiting the arrival of a bondsman he was locked up and occupied a cell over an hour. The game was resumed with Hughey in the pitcher's position, and the visitor's battled out a victory.

Washington vs. Baltimore.

The Washingtons were beaten by the Baltimores July 31, at Washington, D. C., in a contest that had a close and excluing finish. Pitchers Hoffer, of The Washingtons were beaten by the Baltimores July 31, at Washington, D. C., in a contest that had a close and exciting finish. Pitchers Hoffer, of Baltimore, and Mercer, of the local club, officiated as umpires in the place of one of the regular staff, who failed to put in an appearance. It is claimed that if Hoffer had not been partial to his own team in the ninth inning the score would at least have been tied. With three men on the bases in that inning and one hand out, he called Lush out on strikes when it was evident that not one of the balls passed over the home plate. Then McCauley, who batted in place of German, was hit on the foot with a pitched ball, but Hoffer disallowed the claim. MeCauley then went out on an easy fly to short, retiring the side. Both were batted freely at times, but were fairly effective. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Kelley and Selbach and doubles by Keeler, Doyle and Demont.

IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP contest between the Pacific and California Clubs, of the California Association, July 19, at Golden Gate, Cal. H. Richardson distinguished himself by making 208, not out, of the total of 343 credited to the Pacific team, it being the largest individual inning on record in California. The Pacific eleven had been previously retired for a total of 96. Another century was scored on the same day, at Alameda, E. G. Sloman then making 114, not out, of a total of 196 for seven wickets compiled by the Alameda team against the visiting San Jose team. The visitors made a total of 42 for nine wickets, one man being absent.

Only one championship game of the New York Association was played Aug. 1, the Columbia team defeating, at Central Park, this city, the second eleven of the Manhattan Club by 51 to 44, the totals of the first inning. E. Murphy bowled 7 wickets for 10 runs for the winners. On the same day the New Jersey and Crescent Athletic Clubs, of the Metropolitan District League, played at Bay Ridge, L. 1., the former winning by 131 to 34.

A CABLEGRAM dated London, Eng., July 18, gave the following information: "In the game of cricket between the British Players' eleven and the Ranjit Singh team, play closed with the former all out for 305 runs, and the latter not out with 154 runs. This was meant to read that Ranjitsinhji had scored 154, not out, of the total of 305 made by England at Manchester."

and made a total of 146, and the visitors had made eleven in their game with Malvern College, July 27, 28, at Malvern, Eng. The home team batted first and made a total of 146, and the visitors had made 169, with five wickets down, at the close of the opening day, J. A. Lester having scored 74, not out. On the second day the wicket proved slow and uncertain, and Lester was run out after adding only 10 runs to his previous total. Mappin then bowled the last four batsmen before they had scored a solitary run, and the linning closed for 183. T. Wister, who had watched the downfall of the last five wickets, being not out, with 18 runs to his credit. In the second linning the home team put on a total of 166, of which S. H. Day scored 61 in fine form. This left the Haverford team 128 to win, but J. A. Lester, with 37, and C. H. Howson, with 21, alone made any stand. The bowlers, aided by the condition of the wicket, had every advantage, and quickly retired the remaining batsmen for the meagre total of 10, the home team thus winning by 37 runs. The visitors next contended with an eleven of Cambridge University, July 31–Aug. 1, at Cambridge, and scored a noteworthy victory by an inning and 23 runs, the respective totals being: Cambridge University, 202 and 109; Haverford College, 334. The chief contributors to the home team's totals were J. M. Brydone and E. N. Bulloch, the former scoring 82 and 14, and the latter 31 and 26. D. H. Adams bowled effectively throughout both innings, being credited with fourteen wickets at a comparatively small cost. Adams and C. H. Howson made a good stand at the outset of the visitors' inning, scoring respectively 32 and 31 before being dismissed. J. A. Lester and J. H. Scattergood then entered into a prolonged partnership, passing their opponents total in the dirst inning before the latter was retired for ss, his highest score of the trip. Lester kept uphis brilliant batting until he had complied 126, his third century of the tour. The remaining wickets fell rapidly, but the total amounted to 324. The Cambridge eleven in the second innin 169, with five wickets down, at the close of the Staten Island team for 117.

TEN INDIVIDUAL INNINGS of 200 runs and upwards have been scored in the United States and Canada. A. M. Wood, of the Belmont Club, of Philadelphia, Pa., is credited with scoring 278, not out, and 201, not out, and G. S. Patterson, of the Germantown Club, of the same city, has made 271 and 202 in first class matches. G. S. Lyon made 238, not out, the highest individual score in Canada. A. Browning, who made 204, and R. Leisk, who scored 202, are also Canadian cricketers. H. Richardson, who recently made 208, not out, and W. Robertson, who scored 206, not out, in 1894, are California cricketers. A. Burrows scored 202, not out, for the Detroit Athletic Club last season.

THE RING.

Fatal Fight in Utah.

At the Salt Lake (Utah) Athletic Club rooms a glove contest occurred between Bob Thompson, of Salt Lake, and Tom Carter, of Tucson, Ariz., both colored, July 28, which resulted in victory for Thompson and death for Carter. The contest lasted twelve rounds, and the fighting was fast and lasted twelve rounds, and the fighting was fast and furious throughout. Honors were even until the end of the fifth round, both men receiving heavy punishment. In the sixth round Carrier was knocked down with a heavy left handed blow, which left him groggy during the remainder of the round. He recovered in the seventh, however, and made a good showing in the eighth round. The punishment was too heavy for him, however, and, though he made a game fight, it was evident at the close of the tenth round that Cartier was done for. He fought a losing battle in the eleventh, and in the twelfth round came up groggy, and after receiving several hard blows he was knocked out with a left hand swing, which landed squarely on the chin. Carter fell like a log, his head striking the floor with a resounding thump. After the referee had counted Carter out he was carried to a dressing room, and the work of reviving him begun. Dr. Harrison and Dr. Dalby were called in and spent the night in a valu attempt to revive him. Early the next morning it was quite evident he had suffered concussion of the brain. About ten A. M. on 28 Carter died. The men weighed in the ring at a little under 140b, Carter's weight being given at 139 th and Thompsen being 50 lighter. the next morning it was quite evident he had suffered concussion of the brain. About ten A. M. on 20 Carter died. The men weighed in the ring at a little under 140b. Carter's weight being given at 139½b, and Thompson being 5b lighter. Dr. Daiby, who attended Carter, stated that his death resulted from concussion of the brain, caused by the force with which his head struck the floor. Thompson's blow itself scarcely burt him. During the day Thompson was placed under arrest, charged with murder in the first degree. James Bloxon, referee; Roy Condie and Kid Smith, Carter's seconds, and Frank Foreman and Bob Houston, seconds for Thompson, were also placed under arrest. James Bloor and Thomas Homer, president and secretary of the Salt Lake Athletic Club, were arrested next day and released on bonds for their appearance. Thompson was held for trial without bonds. Carter's him pame was Tom Carter, but his real name was James Carter. His brother George runs a rooming house in Salt Lake City. Deceased was born in Burksville, Ky. in 1863. He left Kentucky in 1872, and, with the rest of the family, went to Indiana. He was in Kansas and Nebraska until 1885, and from there went to California. The other men he fought were: Grant Dougals, Jack Turner, Pat Sullivan, Billy Graham. Happy Joe Jones, Harry Wood, Bert Johnson, Big Bob Dodds, Dan Curtiss, ant Olorado Springs, whom he whipped in five rounds, last year. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict stating "the said death being accidental and not felonious." The fact that eight ounce gloves were used, just as they came from the maker, without being broken in any way, is very much in Thompson's favor, this being conclusive evidence in many people's minds that was not the blow struck by Thompson that killed Carter.

THE TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN ASSOCIATION, one of the largest political social clubs in the metropolis, will have its annual festival and field sports at Sulzer's Harlem River Park on Friday afternoon and evening, Aug. T. The games will be composed entirely of events for members only, owing to the largely increased membership and the difficulty of handling a large entry list on a small track. The programme will include the following events: 100yds. run, ssoyds. run, putting the 16th shot and one mile run. Invitations have, as usual, been sent to all the officials in the city and municipal departments, and many of them have signified their intention to join in the hilarious fun which annually signalizes this festival. The present officers of the organization are: President, Florence Sullivan; vice president, Martin Gilligan; treasurer, J. J. Donohue.

THE CORRECT TIME of the fast mile ridden by John S. Johnson, in a trial at the Catford track, London, Eng., July 18, was 1m. 425,8. instead of 1m. 444,8%, as cabled. He was paced by a triplet and a couple of "quads." This remained the fastest made in Europe, under similar conditions, with a thying start, on a circular path, until 20, when, on the same track, J. Platt-Betts, whose record had been lowered by Johnson, regained the honors by riding a mile from a flying start, well paced, in 1m. 41s. Johnson afterwards went on the track, and had a try against the quarter mile record, with a dying start, paced, and tied his own figures by doing 215,8%, also tying his third mile time, 325,8%, and beating his one kilometre record with 1m. 135,8.

Some Capital Racing
Was witnessed by a large assemblage at the Charles River track, in Boston, Mass., on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 1, a special feature of the affair being a match race between J. Schuessler, of the New York hatch race between J. Schuessier, of the Sew Tora police force, and Carlton Brett, a Boston "bobby," both of whom had gained some reputation as both of whom had gained some reputation as wheelists. They met at one mile, and the result was in favor of the bean eater, who finished eight yards to the good. In 2m. 23-3s. The Butler Bros.. Tom and Mat, essayed to beat the professional unpaced tandem record, flying start, one mile, and succeeded, reducing the figures from 1m. 35-3s. to 1m. 35-3s. Summary:

BRIGHTON BEACH MEETING.

Ben Eder Makes His Eastern Debut,

Winning Once and Losing Once. The sixth day of the Summer meeting of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, Tuesday, July 28, was signalized by the Eastern debut of Ben Eder and Lady Inez, two racers picked up out West by M. F. Dwyer, but although they have been heros of many a great race out in the free silver district, they were both taken into camp by horses which had never shown any pnenomenal ability on the Eastern courses. Ben Eder was a prohibitive favorite in the second race, the Nauthus Stakes, but fell before Premier, whose victory came as a thunder clap from a cloudiess sky. In the last race Lady Inex was strongly backed and looked every inch a winner, but failed to secure a place, being, in fact, absolutely last. Nanki Foo evidently means to make the most of his winning streak, as he added the scalp of Hornpipe to his string in the fifth race. The other winners were Lady Mitchell, Partol, Sunny Slope, Manchester and Ameer. Summary:

For three year olds and upwand, selling, purse $500, of which $400 to mst, $75 to second and $25 to third, live furlongs. M. F. Dwyer, but although they have been heros o

We are the mightiest poor medicine company on earth, probably, and have traveled more miles, done less business and slept under hap stacks oftener than any other company now in existence. We are known in every hamlet and village within the radius bounded by the Pacific Ocean West, Atlantic Ocean East, Dominion of Canada North, Gulf of Mexico and Mexico South, and the Blue Canopy of Heaven above, and because of this notoriety we are forced to apply for new attractions. We are the only medicine company in the world with nerve to buck the famous circuses, which we have been doing all over the country. We bucked the great Wallace Show in Salt Lake City two nights, and did not get a push. In this town of Ogden, we will on the 30th have the Forepaugh & Sells' Combined Shows to contend with, but will not buck them, as we have no money to buy gasoline with, and our lamp is broken.
